ABSTRACT

Based on initial questionnaires, plus followup contacts and interviews, this survey documents for the first time the holdings, rates of growth, and information resources available at 72 of Kentucky's scientific and technical libraries. Included are library book collections that emphasize the business, economic, biological, physical, medical, and engineering sciences. The study embraces a wide range of publicly and privately owned libraries, from million-volume university collections to industrial libraries holding only a few hundred specialized titles. Excluded from this study are small hospital libraries, college libraries without a separately administered science collection and public libraries (with the exception of the Louisville Free Public Library). Tables of summary data and a list of cooperative arrangements between these libraries are followed by individual profiles of each library, providing address, subject coverage and special collections, net holdings, loan policy, and hours of operation. There are three indexes to the profiles: institution name, librarian, and subject area. (Author/SL)

I. INTRODUCTION

Scientific and Technical Libraries in Kentucky is the result of a survey conducted under the joint aegis of the public and private task forces of the Kentucky Science and Technology Commission. This study documents for the first time the holdings, rates of growth, and information resources available at seventy-two of Kentucky's scientific and technical libraries. Included are library book collections that emphasize the business, economic, biological, physical, medical, and engineering sciences. The study embraces a wide range of publicly and privately owned libraries, from million-volume university collections to industrial libraries holding only a few hundred specialized titles. Excluded from this study are small hospital libraries, college libraries without a separately administered science collection, and public libraries (with the exception of the Louisville Free Public Library).

An initial sample list of eighty-five libraries was compiled from the American Library Directory, the Directory of Kentucky Libraries, and Technical Serials in Kentucky. Letters and questionnaires (see appendix) were mailed to each library. On the basis of the responses, the sample size was reduced to seventy-two libraries. Additional information was gathered through follow-up letters, telephone calls, and personal interviews.

The variety of libraries surveyed created a statistical problem. In general, accurate data was readily obtained from the smaller specialized libraries. Data from the larger libraries without a separately administered science and technology section was less accurate, since the science and technology materials were scattered throughout the general collection.

Please address all corrections and additions to Russell H. Powell, Engineering Librarian, 355 Anderson Hall, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40506

II. SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL LIBRARIES IN KENTUCKY:

SUMMARIZED DATA

The statistics in sections B-E below are compiled from approximations of holdings and growth rates provided by the seventy-two libraries in this survey. These numbers are rough estimates only and include duplicate titles. They are listed primarily to indicate the relative sizes and growth rates of the various types of scientific and technical libraries in the state.

A. Scientific and Technical Libraries Surveyed:

College and University	27
Government	13
Hospital	12
Industry	19
Public	1
Total	72

B. Total Volumes (Books and Periodicals) in Scientific and Technical Libraries Surveyed:

College and University	approx. 670,316
Government	approx. 71,675
Hospital	approx. 72,550
Industry	approx. 68,723
Public	approx. 10,000
Total	893,264

C. Total Periodical Subscriptions in Science and Technology:

College and University	approx.	12,500
Government	approx.	716
Hospital	approx.	1,678
Industry	approx.	1,600
Public	approx.	400
	Total	16,894

D. New Books Purchased/Year in Science and Technology:

College and University	approx.	28,594
Government	approx.	1,410
Hospital	approx.	3,000
Industry	approx.	1,600
Public		(varies)
	Total	34,604

E. New Periodical Subscriptions/Year in Science and Technology:

College and University	approx.	600
Government	approx.	65
Hospital	approx.	100
Industry	approx.	90
Public		(varies)
	Total	885

III. COOPERATIVE ARRANGEMENTS AMONG SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL LIBRARIES IN KENTUCKY

A. Kentuckiana Metroversity, Inc. is a consortium consisting of six institutions of higher learning in the Louisville Metropolitan area: Bellarmine College, Indiana University Southeast, Louisville Presbyterian Seminary, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Spalding College, and the University of Louisville. Students enrolled in member institutions have the advantage of more comprehensive course offerings, enriched cultural programs, and borrowing privileges with all Metroversity libraries.

B. The Greater Louisville Technical Referral Center is an organization which facilitates interlibrary loan cooperation among Louisville-area libraries. Libraries seeking material via interlibrary loan contact the Center, which in turn refers them to the Kentucky library which houses the material they seek. The Center is financed by state funds and the University of Louisville.

C. The second edition of the Kentucky Union List of Serials will be available on microfiche in the fall of 1973. It will list the serial holdings of most Kentucky libraries, including the college and departmental libraries of the University of Kentucky. The holdings of the U.K. King (Main) Library will be excluded from this edition. The project is funded by the Kentucky Department of Libraries. For more information on sections A., B., C. above, write to Mrs. Ruth Atwood, University of Louisville, Belknap Campus, Louisville, Kentucky 40208.

D. Technical Serials in Kentucky is a 1968 compilation of the serial holdings of thirty-five scientific and technical libraries in Kentucky. This listing will be merged with the Kentucky Union List of Serials (2 ed.) in late 1973.

E. The Kentucky-Ohio-Michigan Regional Medical Library Program is part of a national interlibrary loan cooperative created and financed by the National Institutes of Health. The ten resource libraries within KOMRML pool their resources via interlibrary loan to provide medical information to all health professionals, hospitals, clinics, etc., within the three-state region. The medical libraries at the University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky are the Kentucky-based resource libraries. KOMRML publishes an eight-volume union list of serials.

F. The Kentucky Department of Mental Health Central Office Library is the center of the Mental Health Library System. Members include staff libraries at nine Kentucky hospitals. Their holdings are centrally cataloged and members draw upon each other's resources whenever possible.

G. The Center for Research Libraries is a non-profit organization operated and maintained by sixty-six member and associate-member institutions, including the University of Kentucky. The Center was created in 1949 for the purpose of increasing library materials available for research. Member institutions have access to the Center's nearly three-million volumes of research materials via interlibrary loan. The Center is located in Chicago, Illinois.

LEXINGTON KENTUCKY 40506

ENGINEERING LIBRARY
ANDERSON HALL

The Kentucky Science and Technology Commission, within the Kentucky Department of Commerce, has asked me to prepare a state-of-the-art report on the current status of scientific and technical libraries in Kentucky. Essentially, the purpose of this survey is to develop an overview of the scientific and technical library collections in the state by identifying the major subject areas of each collection as well as the total number of volumes and approximate rate of growth.

In order to compile this information, I have enclosed a brief questionnaire so that you might have an opportunity to describe your library collection as it relates to science and technology resources. Any additional information that you can provide about your library, or science and technology libraries in Kentucky, that would contribute to the success of this survey would be very much appreciated.

If you have any questions regarding this survey, please indicate on the questionnaire or call me at 606-258-2965. Since the Commission would like this study completed by early fall, I would appreciate your response by July 15, 1973. Please return the questionnaire to the address below.

Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

Russell H. Powell
